Now here is one for you. You are in a band, yet your primary interest is piobaireachd. You folks don't play piobaireachd as a band, do you? Wonder how an audience would react to that?

I would be interested to see a pipe band play a full piobaireachd with drum score and harmonies, just to see what happened. It would be an interesting experiment, if nothing else.

My primary interest is piobaireachd, yes, but it is not my only interest. I can get a kick out of playing band stuff as well.

Maybe we don't play stuff like Invergordon Distillery did, but we have piobaireachd extracts in our medleys that we play in public.

We also always try to have someone play parts of a piobaireachd solo in all gigs we have. We are actually starting to have people specifically requesting piobaireachd when they are hiring us. How about that?
